At the time of the 1841 census in Australia there appear to have been no Bosanquets in the country. To-date, I have been unable to devote time to the shipping lists to find Bosanquets or Combrinks, and under what circumstances they settled in Australia. I have been unable to find ANY reference to Narellum, New South Wales, and only one to Cobberty, New South Wales.

Winifred Bosanquet neé Parker was a wealthy woman in her own right, having been left the £20,000 by her father. She settled 75% of her estate on those listed below. Arthur Francis Graham Bosanquet was an Inspector of Police and wealthy farmer in retirement. He left a detailed will and several codicils. Approximately, £8258 was settled on a number of persons listed below, an examination of whom points to family relationships.

Capt. Edward Claude Bernard Bosanquet and Dorothy Stockenstrom Bosanquet neé HUTTON died by drowning on 12 September 1918 whilst on board SS Galway Castle. He was 33 years and she 29 years 10 months. On 18 June 1919, the Supreme Court on circuit appointed Andries Stockenstrom Hutton and Lennox Llewellyn Giddy Executor Dative to Administer the Estate and Tutor Dative of the minor child, Rita Noel Bosanquet.

The will was extensive and took a while to settle (final account 1920). Inter alia it included the farm “Governor’s Kop”, in the Albany District (originally granted to William Thackway on 4 June 1832; and on which there was a mortgage bond of £15,000 in favour of Andries Hutton) and the comfortable residue left to Rita Noel by her father and mother individually.

GALWAY CASTLE was built in 1911 by Harland & Wolff at Belfast with a tonnage of 7988grt, a length of 452ft 4in, a beam of 54ft 4in and a service speed of 13 knots. Similar to the Grantully Castle she was the last ship to be delivered before the company was taken over by Royal Mail. In August 1914 she was requisitioned as a troop ship for deployment in the German West Africa campaign against Windhoek. After the German colony was taken over by General Botha in 1915 she reverted to commercial service as the only remaining Union-Castle vessel. On 3rd August 1916 she was attacked by a German bomber near the Gull lightship but the bomb, although scoring a direct hit, failed to explode. She went aground on the Orient Bank at East London on 12th October 1917 but was refloated five days later without any damage. At 07.30 hrs on 12th September 1918 when two days out from Plymouth, she was torpedoed by U-82 and broke her back. At the time she was carrying 400 South African and walking wounded, 346 passengers and 204 crew members. So severe was the damage that it was thought that she would sink immediately and it appeared that U-82 was lining up for another attack. In the rush to abandon ship, several lifeboats were swamped by the heavy seas and many finished up in the sea. However, the U-boat did not mount a further attack and the Galway Castle continued to wallow for three days. Destroyers were summoned by radio to rescue survivors who were taken back to Plymouth where it was ascertained that 143 persons had perished. HMS Spitfire remained in attendance and took off the skeleton crew before she finally sank.

The following account appears in Grocott's Penny Mail dated Wednesday, 13th November 1918 :

Lost on the Galway Castle – Capt. and Mrs. Bosanquet drown – Their only child saved

The torpedoing of the liner "Galway Castle" on her outward journey last week (says the mail edition of the Hampshire Observer) has come home with terrible force to a well-known Winchester family. Among the passengers were Capt. and Mrs. Bosanquet, late of the R>G>A> (second son of the late Mr. Edward Bosanquet of Narellum, New South Wales, and of Mrs. Bosaquet, of 72, St. Cross-road, Winchester and grandson of the late Rev. Stanley Bosanquet, rector of Old Bolingbroke, Lincolnshire), and his wife and their little girl, a child of nine months. Capt. and Mrs. Bosanquet both lost their lives, but the child was saved and is now with her grandmother at Winchester. When the disaster occurred the child was given by her parents to Mrs. Dale Lace, of Johannesburg, who jumped into a boat with her, keeping her as well as she could until picked up by a destroyer where the little one was tenderly looked after by the sailors. At Plymouth she was handed over to the charge of Miss Dealbridge and taken by her to London, where she was taken the greatest care of by r. and Mrs. Mariggi, of the St. Pancras Hotel. They wired the Hon. Mrs. Joyce, of Winchester, who was closely associated with emigration work, as a result of which Mrs. Bosanquet was communicated with, and at the beginning of week, her daughter (the late Captain's sister [ probably D G Nxon. ed.] went up to London and fetched the little girl, who, it is pleasing to learn, is none the worse for the terrible experience it went through, but on the contrary is remarkably well. The cheerful presence of the bright little child is some consolation to Mrs. Bosanquet in her bitter grief for the loss of her son and daughter-in-law under such tragic circumstances.

Capt. Bosanquet was 33 years of age, and his wife about 4 years younger. He was educated at Fritham House School, New Forest, and Oakham. He went out to South Africa 14 years ago and became a large and prosperous farmer in the neighbourhood of Grahamstown. In the early days of the War he enlisted as a trooper in the Imperial Light Horse of South Africa, and went all through the South-West African campaign under General Botha, rising to commissioned rank. When that memorable [event] was over he married Dorothy, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andries Hutton, of Grahamstown, and then came to England bringing his wife with him. Arriving in the homeland he obtained a commission in the R.G.A., and was sent to Falmouth, where he remained for the rest of his military career and rose to the rank of Captain. Mrs. Bosanquet accompanied her husband to Falmouth, and it was there that their little child was born last Christmas, and was named Rita Noel. A few months ago, on being invalided out of the army, Capt. Bosanquet was offered a free passage to South Africa, but as he could not obtain permission to take his wife and child with him, he naturally declined the offer and decided to wait until an opportunity occurred of all going together. They therefore came to Winchester and took rooms at St. Cross near his home. As, however, he was anxious to get back to his farm, he availed himself of the earliest opportunity of a joint passage, and thus it was they became passengers on the ill-fated "Galway Castle".

Mr. and Mrs. Hutton, the parents of Mrs. Bosanquet, came to England a year or two ago and have for some time been waiting for a return passage to South Africa. They have during the past week arrived in Winchester on a visit to Mrs. Bosanquet and her daughters at St. Cross. Both families will have the sincere sympathy of a large circle in the heavy blow which has befallen them

In a letter dated February 1984, A H Giddy recounts the following:

Dolly and her husband were on their way back to South Africa ..... in the Galway Castle when it was sunk by a German submarine in the Bay of Biscay. It stayed afloat for some time and most of the passengers were put into life-boats to be rescued by other ships. There was an inadequate number of life boats, however, and the men therefore had to remain whilst the women and children were saved. Dolly, however, could not bear to leave her husband and gave your mother, Noel, to someone to look after. Unfortunately their life boat overturned but Noel was again rescued and handed from person to person when finally rescued until she was lost. However, at Southampton her grandmother, Blanche, recognised her and looked after her, firstly in England for a short while and then in Grahamstown when they returned to South Africa. She lost her health fast, however, after the loss of her only child and Noel was adopted by Lex and Lily Giddy whom she thereafter always referred to as Mom and Dad. We always understood that money was put aside for her from her mother's and father's side and that she would be comfortably off when grown up. She had another sadness in her life, however, when after the death of his wife, Lily, Lex Giddy became insolvent and at an old age became involved in some muddled criminal matters. He was eventually tried and refusing to defend himself, he was sent to prison where he died a few months later. He and his wife had been leading citizens in Grahamstown all their lives. He was the Chairman of the Council at St. Andrew's College for over 30 years and guided those fortunes to a considerable extent. He was also an important person at the Anglican Cathedral and was a leading sportsman, being S.A. Tennis Champion for 4 or 5 years in succession and a leading cricketer. His wife was also prominent in social matters and was awarded the M.B.E and the O.B.E.

The first Commission road direction sign is located just beyond the Alamein police checkpoint and all cemetery visitors should turn off from the main road onto the parallel old coast road. The cemetery lies off the road beyond the ridge, and road direction signs are in place approximately 25 metres before the low metal gates and stone wing walls which are situated centrally at the road edge at the head of the access path into the cemetery. The Cross of Sacrifice feature may be seen from the road.

I have been referred to The Story of the Bosanquets by Grace Lawless Lee published by Phillimore in 1966. It is said to include a very complete tree up to about 1900; and to show how the Bosanquets came from Lunel in the very south of France (not from near Dieppe) in 1685. I am told that it is based on the papers of Captain HTA Bosanquet RN and research by Clara Meyer (née Bosanquet).
