ⁱ Sir Francis Pemberton was a Lord Chief Justice of England. He was educated in 1693 in King's College, Cambridge, Cambridgeshire, England. In his early life, he squandered his means in lascivious and profligate living and eventually was imprisoned in the Fleet debtors' prison. The experience served him well "as a school, a university and an inn of court". He defended many of his fellow inmates whilst incarcerated. His experience had another benefit in that he was exceptionally sensitive to the well being of prisoners. On his release, he was cordially welcomed by my own Inn, the Inner Temple, as a member. He was called to the Bar in 1705.

In April 1688, King James VII (Scotland) and II (England) issued a second Declaration of Indulgence, and ordered it to be read in all churches and chapels throughout the kingdom on two successive Sundays. On May 18th the Archbishop of Canterbury, William Sancroft, and six bishops of his province of Canterbury protested and petitioned the king to excuse them from carrying out this order. James II had the seven bishops arrested, imprisoned in the Tower of London on a charge of "seditious libel". He put them on trial in Westminster Hall before a court of 60 nobles, they were acquitted to the general acclamation of the populous. Sir Frances PEMBERTON, Lord Chief Justice at the time defended the seven bishops. Seven eminent Englishmen, subsequently meeting at Shrewsbury, addressed a letter to William of Orange which was delivered by Admiral Herbert. By 11 December, James II had left for exile and a Protestant succession was assured. This, the so-called "Glorious Revolution", led to his replacement by King William.

Sir Francis Pemberton died in May 1762 and was buried on 19 May 1762 in Trumpington, Cambridgeshire.

Jeremiah Pemberton matriculated on 26 June 1732 at Emmanuel College, Cambridge. He was awarded his BA (1735), ordained deacon (28 May 1738) in Lincoln, awarded an MA (1739). He was a rector of All Saints, Little Shelford, Cambridgeshire between 1756 and 1758; a rector of Girton, Cambridgeshire in 1758; rector of Earl Stonham, Suffolk, England. From 1762, he was Lord of the Manor in Trumpington, Cambridgeshire. He died in March 1800 and was buried on 30 March 1800 in Trumpington, Cambridgeshire, England.
